题目： These days, in many countries fewer and fewer people want to become teachers, particularly in secondary schools. What are the reasons for this, and how could the problem be solved?

范文：7.5 分

A generation ago, teaching in a high school was considered an extremely well-respected and popular job, and in some countries this is still true. However, in many parts of the world, there has been a sharp drop in the number of young people who want to become high-school teachers. This essay will look at the reasons for this and propose some solutions.

One of the main causes of the problem is that teachers' salaries are lower than many other jobs. Teachers' pay has not kept pace with that of other professions, such as law or medicine. In the UK, for example, a doctor with five years' experience will earn far more than a teacher with the same experience. The solution is for the government to raise teachers' pay significantly, which would attract more people into the profession.

Another problem is that many children do not behave well in class. That is to say, teachers often have to deal with pupils who disobey them, which often causes them to give up teaching. This tends to put off potential teachers as well. To tackle this issue, parents must give their children a sense of respect for teachers, in order to make children behave better in class.

A third cause of the problem is that teachers often have too much work to do. Most teachers are snowed under with marking and paperwork, which means that they have to stay late at school and work at home in the evening. As a result, many teachers are tired and stressed, and their job has a negative effect on their family life. The way forward could be to cut teachers' hours, and to take on more teaching assistants, which would make teaching an easier job.

To sum up, teaching has become a much less popular job in many countries, due to reasons such as the salary, the working hours and pupils' behaviour. This is a serious problem, and unless we can get more talented young people to become teachers, the education of our children will suffer. My view is that the main responsibility for solving the problem lies with parents and the government.

2. 小伙伴们，来动手提炼一下过渡句吧。

参考 sample:

报告类模板 1：

第一段话： 背景句 +改写题目+ This essay will look at the reasons for this and propose some solutions.

第二段话： One of the main causes of the problem is that + T.S . + develop: 对比论证 + The solution is for sb. to do sth. ……

第三段话：Another problem is that + T.S. . That is to say，详细展开 + To tackle this issue, …

第四段话： The third cause of the problem is that …… The way forward could be to do sth.

第五段话： To sum up，问题 due to reasons such as a, b and c. This is a serious problem, and unless we can …. My view is that the main responsibility for solving the problem lies with a and b.

注意事项：

1. 结尾段高手不需要写这么长， 本身的重要性是不足的

2. 理由和解决措施可以写 2 个左右即可，考官不喜欢很多的理由，喜欢可以把理由写清楚的人。 你的基础好， 你就写 2 个， 然后重在展开，基础稍微弱一下， 可以写 3 个理由。顶级高手可以一段话理由， 2 段落解决措施

3. 你对比一下你提炼出来的和我提炼出来的模版，如果你不想和其他学生的模版写成一样的，请阅读我以下的语言，重新整合出来一个你的模版，如果你懒得整理了，你就背会上面的模版。

高手们看以下的句法：

因果的句型：

Modern lifestyles are probably responsible for this.

These children are often spoilt, not in terms of love and attention because working parents do not have the time for this, but in more material ways.

They are allowed to do sth. This means that

The reason why we have so much packing is that we consume so much more on a daily basis than families did in the past.

The amount of waste produced is also a result of our tendency to use something once and throw it away.

Factors such as…… all contribute to ….

The sense of belonging to a team or a working community also contributes to job satisfaction because colleagues help each other to enjoy their working lives.

建议措施的句型

The government should fund this kind of parental support, because this is no longer a problem for individual families, but for the society as a whole.

Governments need to raise this awareness in the general public….

Children can be educated about environmental issues at schools…

…. The first step in achieving it would be to do …..

….. to tackle the problem of …, …… need to be developed.

……would be a more effective strategy for doing sth. .

To do this, we need to do sth.

Governments can encourage such actions by doing sth., such as …, by doing sth and by doing sth.

Governments can encourage such actions by putting taxes on packing, such as plastic bags, by providing recycling services and by fining households and shops that do not attempt to recycle their waste.

….. would depend on ……

Long – term traffic and pollution reductions would depend on educating the public to use public transport more, and on governments using public money to construct and run efficient systems.

4. 小伙伴们，截止这里你的句式和模版提炼好了吗？也许你的模版没有变化，也许你提炼出来的变成了以下这种（我只写了中间哈）：

   chief among the causes of this problem is that ……. in order to address its root causes, perhaps the most effective method of doing this would be for people to do ….

   Another major contributing factor is that ……one further method of … would be for people to do

   不管是哪种， 请记住要定型了哈。动动你的小脑瓜子开启记忆模式吧，我希望你背会之后再看后面的内容哈。

Cities 'worse to live in than 20 years ago'

According to a new report published by the Cities Foundation, modern cities are less pleasant places to live in than they used to be.

1 One thousand people were surveyed about a range of issues which affect cities, and the remarkable findings show that life in today's mega-cities is so stressful that at least two-thirds of those currently living in big cities would like to relocate to the countryside or a small town.

2 The stress of the getting from A to B in big cities is at the top of the list of problems. For many people, the daily commute to work is a source of frustration. Forty per cent of the people in the survey have suffered from road rage while stuck in traffic on the way to work. Three-quarters of people say that public transport in their city is often subject to delays, breakdowns and cancellations. The extortionate cost of public transport is also a serious problem. Many people see the price of underground and bus travel as a rip-off, and have to devote more than ten per cent of their salary to transport costs.

3 The general cost of living in cities is another problem. The high property prices in most big cities put buying a property out of reach of most first-time buyers. Many young people are priced out of the housing market, and have to take in lodgers to make ends meet, or rent over-priced flats miles away from the city centre. In London, for instance, the price of buying even a one-bedroom flat is so prohibitive that many have given up even considering putting money aside for a deposit. The cost of going out is also very high – in many big cities, going to restaurants and pubs is very expensive for people on average salaries.

4 Another issue facing people who live in cities is rising crime. Crime rates have rocketed in many big cities, and many say there are several dangerous no-go areas in their city. Fear of crime is on the increase – street crimes, such as mugging, assault and vandalism, are now very common – and many are afraid of going out at night alone. People also have to deal with anti-social behaviour, such as verbal abuse in the street.

5 Many were also concerned by the lack of green spaces and play facilities for children. Most major conurbations surveyed have a far smaller number of parks and gardens than a generation ago. Planning permission seems to have been given for an ever-greater number of supermarkets, office developments and apartments on sites where there were previously green spaces. Many of the respondents in the survey said they felt stressed and suffocated in the city, a problem which is compounded by pollution.

6 Although some of the cities surveyed, like Amsterdam, have had some success in reducing pollution, overall air quality has worsened, with cases of respiratory diseases such as asthma and bronchitis soaring in recent years. Children as young as two or three are now being affected by these medical conditions, and at the other end of the scale, a greater number of elderly people are being admitted to hospital with illnesses caused by pollution. Traffic congestion and an increasing number of vehicles on the road have resulted in cities being badly affected by air pollution.

7 And finally, the majority of people in the survey were fed up with the constant noise pollution – the roar of traffic, the sound of loud music blaring out of a neighbour's window, and the constant sound of activity. It is not surprising, then, that the levels of stress-related illnesses among people who live in cities are higher than ever before. Big cities, once a mecca for ambitious people seeking fame and fortune, are now less and less popular among people of all ages. Perhaps the 21st century is set to be the century of the small town and the countryside?
